Helping Families Care For Their Pets

Dear Friends,

As the population increases, there is a noticeable and growing need for pet care in our community. Due to unforeseen circumstances such as the loss of a job, medical issues, changes in housing or a lack of pet care education, people are often unable to care for their pets. That's how the quest began for TAILS Foundation Inc and we need your help!

TAILS Foundation Inc's mission is to help families care for their pets by providing programs and services, resources and education for optimal health and well-being for all pets. By assisting families during difficult times and educating our community, pets will not have to be surrendered and can live long, healthy and happy lives!

As a nonprofit organization, TAILS Foundation Inc relies heavily on the support of local businesses like yours to provide support to our programs and services such as Food4TAILS (a mobile pet food bank), RainbowTAILS (supporting end-of-life care for elderly pets), and TAILS4Life (supporting essential veterinary medical care). As a TAILS Foundation Inc sponsor, you may receive benefits such as name/logo on our sponsors banner, Facebook and website, networking opportunities and free membership to our TAILS411 program (please see attached Sponsorship Benefits).

For more information about TAILS Foundation Inc or its programs and services, please feel free to contact us anytime or visit our website, TAILSFoundationInc.com. We would be happy to provide more information or set up a presentation for your business if requested.

Why Support TAILS Foundation Inc?

In our community, there is an increasing need for pet assistance services especially among low-income and senior families. Shelters and rescue groups are overwhelmed with pets needing forever homes and temporary financial or medical hardships often lead to pets being surrendered. By partnering with TAILS Foundation Inc, you'll help support struggling pet families in our community as well as fund resources, educational programs and fundraisers.

TAILS Foundation Inc also provides social activities for both people and their pets. Clubs, advocacy groups, classes and activities help bring people and their pets together for support and bring awareness to the rising need for animal-assistance programs in our community.

Policies pertaining to animal care taken from the TAILS Foundation Inc bylaws:

2.3 Policies: The TAILS Foundation Inc & TAILS411 support these policies as listed below, but not limited to:

2.3.1 Euthanasia: TAILS does not support euthanasia as the predominant means of managing the pet overpopulation problem. Every effort should be made to place appropriate animals in safe, responsible homes. Euthanasia should be resorted to only when necessary to spare animals from suffering.

2.3.2 Responsible Guardianship: TAILS believes that responsible guardians are legal adults who are fully committed to humane, compassionate, lifelong care for their companion animal(s). Humane, compassionate care includes seeing to the animal's physical, behavioral, social and psychological needs. Ideally, guardian/companion animal relationships will endure for the life of the animal(s), however, not all pet and family matches are successful and because life circumstances can and do change, it is understandable that not all homes will be "forever homes." When this is the case, a responsible guardian is one who takes the necessary steps to re-home the animal(s) with a suitable responsible guardian or, as a last resort, to place the animal(s) in the care of a licensed reputable shelter, rescue group or sanctuary. Except in the case of emancipated minors, children under the age of 18 should not adopt or purchase an animal on their own and should be accompanied by a responsible parent or guardian who is legally authorized to enter into an adoption contract and who will assume primary responsibility for all aspects of the animal's care.

2.3.3 Responsible Pet Care: TAILS believes that responsible care includes appropriate amounts of nutritious, species-appropriate food and clean water to support good health, basic veterinary care including vaccinations and parasite control, necessary grooming and training, regular exercise, social interaction, diligence in identifying and eliminating hazardous substances and situations, using good judgment when exposing pets to potentially stressful situations, prompt treatment for illness or injury, and, in the case of dogs, cats, ferrets and rabbits, sterilization before puberty. Depending on species, responsible care also requires the use of collars and identification.

2.3.4 No-Kill Community: TAILS strongly supports "no kill" community organizations that are committed to reducing the number of cats and dogs in that community who are at risk of becoming lost, abandoned or relinquished to shelters. Toward that end, TAILS supports efforts to maximize accessible and affordable spay/neuter services, the practice of TNR (Trap, Neuter, Release) of feral cats, promotion of adoption of homeless animals, education of potential guardians on pet selection, the use of microchips and visible ID tags, and providing ongoing expert training and behavior assistance to guardians so that they may live successfully with their companion animals.

2.3.5 Responsible breeders are individuals who have focused their efforts on one or a select few breeds and through breeding, historical research and ongoing study, mentoring relationships, club memberships, showing, raising and training of these breeds have become experts in their health, heritable defects, temperament and behavior. Responsible breeders are well suited to educate and screen potential buyers/adopters and provide follow-up support after purchase or adoption. Responsible breeders take lifetime responsibility for the animals they have bred. If possible, adoption is always the best option.

2.3.6 Training Aids and Methods: TAILS supports training methods that are based on an understanding of how animals learn and incorporate kindness and respect for both the pet and the guardian. Humane training does not inflict unnecessary distress or discomfort on the pet. Humane training makes primary use of lures and rewards such as food, praise, petting and play. In addition to lures and rewards, there are many training tools and types of equipment designed to assist guardians in managing their pets' behavior at home and in public places. TAILS supports the use of methods and equipment that effectively accomplish the training objective with the least amount of stress for the pet. TAILS is opposed to any training equipment that causes a pet to experience physical discomfort or undue anxiety.

Any individual, business or organization who disregards these policies/bylaws will be subject to membership termination without membership fee refund.
